Special thanks to photography club!

During the last 125 years, Annie Wright School has undergone many changes, such as change in location and in size. We have always stood from strength to strength and we still value friendship, community, and tradition.

Annie Wright has become a staple in Tacoma. Since 1884, it has promoted a well-rounded education in an open and diverse community.

Originally a boarding school for 26 girls, it now educates 458 students of both genders, from ages 3 to 19, hailing from 19 different countries.

Annie Wright is built on a very strong community. Many lifelong friendships have been made here, not only between students but also between students and faculty.

We hope you enjoy the 2008-2009 yearbook as a celebration of Annie Wright School's 125th anniversary!

THE START OF ...

TRADITIONS ABOUND

At the Upper School picnic, ASB president Kyra Mungia spoke to the entire Upper School student body. She said, "Annie Wright gives us the opportunities, the knowledge, the reach, the resources, and the desire to accept the monumental undertaking of reaching our full potential." As serious as she takes her academics. Kyra loves the school's many traditions that have been around since it's founding in 1884-traditions like finding the spade, senior tree planting, and the Founder's Day cake. At the picnic, seniors were given their first clue for where the spade was hidden by the blue tie class of 2008.

In an effort to minimize cliques in the new blue tie class, the Upper School put together a ninth grade orientation that took place the week before school started. Freshmen began their orientation with a picnic at Annie Wright and then went to Deception Pass State Park for a two day trip with Upper School teachers Emily Weston and Marian Schwartz. Their weekend was filled with team-building activities such

their trust in each other in this sit circle. The first and second time the freshmen tried to do the sit circle they all ended up falling on the ground. The third time,

FUN AND GAMES

Beginning as an all-school event more than 50 years ago, Ice Cream Day is now an annual occurrence in Lower School. The first Friday of the new school year, 5th graders get to make ice cream, take invitations around to all the classrooms, and serve their creation to the kids and teachers at the end of the day. This is their first sense of responsibility as a 5th grader and is something everyone always looks forward to at the start of the year. Before being served ice cream, however, Lower School students get to participate in a variety of activities the teachers supervise such as juggling, parachute, frisbee, bump, bubbles and general playground time.

SPOONER FARMS

DORM LIFE

This year, the residence department took students to Spooner Farms, a famous pumpkin farm, where dorm students were able to buy pumpkins, walk through a giant corn maze, and of course, take pictures. There were big wooden pumpkins where kids could put their heads and arms through, and many scarecrows where people could pose next to. The dorm students had a blast celebrating a long standing American tradition of Halloween and carving pumpkins.

CHAPEL ACTIVITIES

FINANCIAL WHAT?

Club WIPT, Window Into Inspiring Political Thought, gave a presentation during Upper School Chapel about America's economic situation. Maya Pisel, club president, gets up to explain how the economic situation came to be, and the rest of the club took turns talking about the economic crisis, even going into specifics about individual companies like the Lehman Brothers. They also talked about how the stock market was already on a downhill curve, but it was mostly ignored. They enlightened the Upper School on how Bush's $700 billion plan would work.

PROBLEMS ALIGHT

"The financial panel put together by WIPT was an excellent use of chapel time to educate the student body about a current issue not only for our country, but for the global community."

UNIQUE CLASSES

Annie Wright has many unique classes throughout the school. These are just a few of them.

1. Cooking

Little chefs lan Ball and Ryan Raney make pizza with their class. They have delicious toppings of cheese, pineapple, pepperoni, and tomato sauce!

3. Yoga

Melissa Fallat prepares to assume corpse-pose. Yoga has become one of the most desired classes as it teaches students how to balance and become stronger.

5. Advisory

The inconspicuous Hansen-Swenson advisory decorated Troy Droubay's room like a winter wonderland. Pranks like this are common among Upper School advisories, and everybody tends to get a kick out of them.

7. Harkness

Yvonne Ke attentively listens to her classmates from her Humanities 2 class while taking extensive notes on the holy book of Islam: the Qur'an.

2. Speech

Mariah Miller speaks passionately about the crossbase highways that would destroy her barns near Fort Lewis if approved by the

4. Japanese

Students in Middle School and Upper School, like Marina Andrade, spend hours each week immersing themselves in the Japanese language and culture.

6. Swimming

Sergio Andrade learns swimming skills along with his friends in the Annie Wright pool. Giving a great smile for the camera, he watches out for splashes.

8. Macro Econ

Stacey Klemmer gets some oneon-one attention from Diane Soucey who was delighted this year to teach Macro Economics after an overwhelming number of her Micro Economics students requested it be offered in the winter trimester.

TIDBITS OF INFO

- All Annie Wright students spend hours in the underground pool erected in 1924. The swimming pool goes through an average of 400 towels a week; towels purchased by the Lower School Student Council.
- The Harkness Table was invented at Phillips Exeter Academy because philanthropist Edward Harkness requested a table where "each student would feel encouraged to speak up."
- 7% of AWS students take Japanese

ELECTIVES

Choosing in school makes school cool!

1. Chess

Checkmate! After school on Tuesdays and Thursdays, Lower School students learn how to strategize and plan their next move with Mr. Solomon by playing chess. Here, Taylor Jackson moves her pawn to H-4.

3. Ensemble

Colleen Dimmer prepares to record her vocal part of "Here it Goes Again" by OK Go while learning to master the electric guitar.

5. Chinese

Keeping Annie Wright diverse is key to keeping its multi-cultural image. In her Chinese class, Lili Aduddell learns a valuable lesson that she will be able to apply in her daily life.

7. Acting Styles

Using various costumes and stage set ups, Philomena Bradford builds up her confidence and acts out works from Shakespeare to realistically express the moment of melodrama from the climax scene.

2. Advanced Art

In this elective, students depict various sceneries of the world and express them into unique styles of sketching and painting. Ji-in Lee uses pastels to create a colorful vision of the night.

4. Architecture

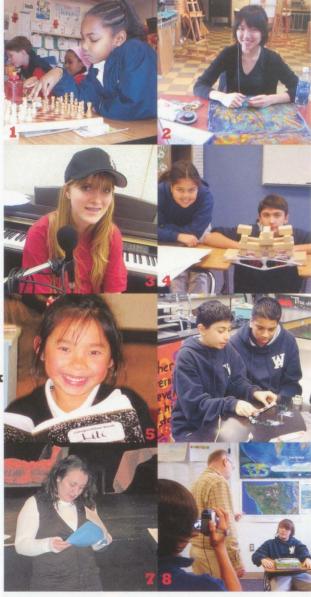

Bridge building is the challenge of the day. Abbie Zirinsky and Cameron Roland test the strength of their bridge made of 20 drinking straws. It is a beam construction and it held 18 wooden blocks.

6. How Things Work

Sameem Norooz and Bikie Pental are curious minds. They are making an electric motor from scratch using paperclips, electrical wire, and opposite charges of batteries to create currents.

8. Film

Lights, camera, ACTION! Shaquil Haque is filming what is supposed to be a not so typical day for Alex Moreno in Mr. Rockne's math class in the future Academy Award winner "Fun with Failure".

Film Making is Making News

As a new elective in the Middle School, Kyle Price's Film Making class is a hit. With a focus on teamwork, endless effort, and making deadlines, the 7th and 8th graders work in groups to plan and produce short films. The students get to learn about and use film editing software and cameras to create their films. At the end of the semester. the groups make a final presentation of their hard work at a class film festival. To the right Shaquil Haque improves his filming skills with John Rockne.

After a series of unexpected snow days, the Upper School holiday party was postponed. Therefore, on the 9th of January, advisors donned "reindeer hats" made by Jake. CROSSING THE BORDER

WHAT IS IT?

Crossing the Border is available to current 8th grade girls at Annie Wright. It is a school day where these students attend Upper School classes, participate in activities like yearbook or art, and really get to know Upper School students. The original purpose for Crossing the Border was to create a smoother transition for students from the Annie Wright Middle School to the Upper School. This year, before a rigorous day of classes and rotations, the girls got to go to Farrelli's pizza.

On the last day of spirit week, advisory groups dress up in their chosen advisory uniform and compete in the ultimate competition of the minds, Brain Brawl. Brain Brawl is a time of the year when advisory groups have a chance to bond together and prove to the rest of the school they have the strongest collective brain power in the Upper School. This year's Brain Brawl topics were Math, Science, Geography, English, and Pop Culture. Only three out of ten advisory groups rose to the top in the competition. Soucey-Timson placed third, Weston-Barber (aka "J-azzercise") placed second, and making a clean sweep this year, Wellinola placed first. Congratulations to everyone, thanks for participating, and start prepping for next year!

LIFE IS A JOURNEY ...

That is part of a line in a song from this year's 2nd & 3rd grade musical, directed by Ross Aker and choreographed by Marsha Walner. Students sang and danced about discoveries, inventions and dreams. They sent the message that everyone can choose how they want to live their lives. Everyone has the choice to make something of themselves, just like Charles and Orville Wright's first flight or Ferdinand Magellan's trip around the world. It can even be as simple as learning more about the people and things around you. Whatever you choose, life is a journey.

Can it be done? Tara Bacher's 8th graders didn't think so when she told them. They were she told them that humans share 50% of their DNA with a banana! So, to see the truth. 8th graders went through the process of DNA extraction. They smashed up a banana, cooled it to break down the cell walls and then filtered it with cheese cloth so they would only have the liquid. Afterwards. students poured a small amount into a test tube with ethyl alcohol, let it sit. and watched the DNA separate!

US INTERIM

OMEWORK!

Every year members of the Upper School look forward to the week after winter finals, not only because they will be done with the second trimester, but also because of the outrageously fun week, known as Interim. Interim is an annual break from the daily grind of the average school week used to educate and inspire students in different facets of their life. This year each grade experienced something new, from the 9th grade's sustainability project to the 11th grade going on the infamous Junior Trip. In all levels, memories and unbreakable bonds were made bringing each grade closer

CREATIVE MINDS

MIDDLE SCHOOL EXPRESSIONS

On Friday April 24th, the middle school spent the day expressing themselves in different mediums. These forms of expression included painting, Irish step dancing, origami, storytelling, and ballet. This day of fun and art is known as Arts with Style. This widely popular event gives middle school students a day of freedom from classes but not learning. This day of relaxation culminates in an evening event put on by students and teachers. This year the evening entertainment was the middle school play, "Confessions at Bath," which was written and directed by Elizabeth Gettel. Outside the theater the lobby was decorated by pieces of art done by students and teachers. This year all the proceeds from this event went to the Nativity House Art Room. Ana Steel was once again able to coordinate a successful day of fun and entertainment.

PACKED TO THE MAX

"My egg survived because I put a lot of stuff in it."

~Derrick Hungerford An 8th grade art student creates a "Dot" painting in Ms. Steel's art class.

"I flew it really lightly. I was excited to get 5th place and I got a toy!"

~Cody Shaw

As the 2nd thrower for her class, Julia Hanly's plane lands the furthest away from the windows until Elisabeth Connett takes the lead several kids later.

Jean Young demonstrates what will happen to your egg if it is not protected in some kind of structure. Result = SPLAT!

During Mr. Schuver's abstract drawing/painting workshop, Erin Kerr writes her name on the back of her canvas before Mr. Schuver gives students the OK to quickly and loosely draw a still life photo that is sitting on their tables. After the drawing, students painted with bright colors on the canvas, adding abstractness to it if they wished.

MAY DAY

CELEBRATING 125 YEARS

May Day is the longest standing tradition here at Annie Wright. Each year around the 1st of May, the whole school gathers to celebrate the coming of spring and the senior class. The fifth grade gets the honor of doing the May Pole dance, the all-school choir sings, and the allschool orchestra plays. This year we had blue skies and warm sun rays beaming down on us; no one could ask for better weather. The senior class agreed to wear white dresses; however, Caitlin Wahlers, the May Queen, got to wear a vibrant purple dress!

This is the first year for Chimes Choir at AWS. Pastor Pam offered it as another musical option for 4th and 5th grade students who were not in Chorus or Orchestra. They practice once a week and often play while the Chorus sings. The handchimes and equiment were all purchased by the AWS Parent's Association.

LS Chinese

Abby Givens, Sophie Blummers, Josie Trueblood, Anna Haddad, and Lydia Williams

Chinese is a paid activity that is available to 1st and 2nd graders on Tuesdays after school. These dedicated young ladies have taken on the challenge of learning how to read and write Chinese characters in their workbooks. They also spend time working on reading and writing sentences.

LS Chorus

Chasen Misko-Capell, Emma Peet, Annika Cederstrand, Emma Verbovski, Amelia Jordon, Emily Betts, Adam Faccone, Sarah Gallup-Stowell, Tiger Shigetake, Josie Tiffany, Sammy Morris, Margo Samuelson, Reina Deol, Rachel Holland, Zoe Tolbert, Libby Kendig, Anna Andrade, Stewart Hughes, Casey Kim, Ashley Nelson, YaXi Stapp, Annie White, Sophie Rockne, Hannah Pukis, Zyaire Cheatham, Diana Davidson, Molly Bryant, Grace Hanly, Natalie Steinert, Anna Terrano, Gus Gant, and Jonathan Pelster

Elizabeth Gettel, Quinci Adams, Danny Dahan, Will Walkey, Henry Wurst, Taylor Murrey, Maryam Saudagaran, Cooper Cassell, Margaux Arntson, Lianne Ahn, Tori Smith, Sydney Juranich, Leslie Bauska, Sophia Arim, Molly Russell, and Ange Clayton

Students in the Middle School can sign up for chorus as an elective in 7th or 8th grade.

They sing all kinds of music and are occasionally accompanied by the Middle School Band.

US Chorus

Melissa Fallat, Jae Moon Baek, Colleen Dimmer, Kari Ayres, Shyaka Uwase Tatiana, Maha El-Jack, Amy Jones, Tia Wright, Krystaal McClain, Jessi Cox, Larissa Day, Anna Paulson, Jeff Orr, Joy Tai, Madeline Scott, Emma Day, Stephanie Robinson, Patty Wu, and Micaela McCauley

Upper School chorus is offered as an activity which meets twice a week. This year chorus performed for Lessons and Carols, numerous All School Chapels, the Winter Recital, May Day and Commencement.

US Cooking Club

Yvonne Ke, Sunny Song, Maria Illingworth, Crystal Hwang, Holly Huang, Alexandrea Montgomery, Lydia Mautz, Ting-Ting Liao, Bacha Avegno, and Emily Carr Not pictured: Alaina Emde

Cooking club works together to create things such as: baklava, Chinese hot pot, chicken tandoori burgers, fresh pasta, and of course cookies. Each week one student picks a recipe she would like to make and has to make sure it stays within the budget, can keep nine pairs of hands busy, and can hopefully involve a new unique ingredients and/or technique. Cooking club is a great way to wind down the week and bring ladies together with delicious food.

US Debate

Advisors Becca Wellington and Elizabeth Borgen, Audrey Ren, Caitlin Brown, Sonia Vora, Mina Saudagaran, Briana Abu-occasionally, Sophia Keskey, Min Hye Kim, Esther Noh, Lauren Siverly, Abhilasha Bhola, Mary Bradford, Sophia Desimone, Mariah Miller, Kathy Kimpel, Elizabeth Ferrie, Sirah Hosni (Captain), and Mallory Kaniss

The US Debate Team works hard at learning how to speak in public and research topics for tournaments put on by the National Forensics League. Students have two options: speech or debate. Speeches often present information or persuade and may be practiced or impromptu. Debate develops your ability to think quickly on your feet, research skills, and the ability to synthesize information and refute an argument very quickly. The team averages about four tournaments each trimester.

LS DI

Emma Verbovski, Natalie Nygren, Sarah Gallup-Stowell, Owen Fitz, Ryan Jones, Henri Desimone, Cruz Stidham, Elizabeth Smith, Nicolas Vipond, Amber Kersey, Emma Salam, Isabelle Weeks, Carsyn Kniss, Lauren Pessemier, Josie Tiffany, Tana Givens, George Jackson, Vern Atkinson, Paxton Reunanen, Max Stackpole, Katherine Olivieri, Colby Enebrad, Virginia Walkey, and Natalie Steinert

Not pictured: Adam Len, Thomas Parrott, and Kaylee Kim

Destination: Imagination is a program where teams of students learn and practice creative problem solving skills and presentation techniques. There is a limit of 7 students per team. This year there are four AWS DI teams competing in the Elementary division and one competing in the Middle division. There are no US teams representing AWS this year.

MS DI

Julia Smith, Sara Pelster, Kayleigh McCoy, Daniel Davidson, Lars Nielsen, Anisha Vora and Dylan Hoffman

Students may choose from a variety of Central Challenges to compete in at the tournament, such as structural, improvisational, theatrical, and technical. Each team must also enter the Instant Challenge Competition, in which team members must work things out together without being able to plan solutions or performances in advance as they do for the Central Challenges. Coordinator Jean Young specializes in this type of challenge. DI teams compete in the regional tournament in March. Teams that place First are invited to the state tournament. Last year the US team placed First at the state tournament and was the first AWS team to be invited to Globals, where it finished 25th in the world.

US Dorm Council/Honor Board

Maren Hill (Dorm Council), Josephine Duan (Dorm Council), Angela Chu (Dorm Council), Harim Kim (Dorm Council), Elizabeth Ferrie (Honor Board), Eza Chung (Dorm Council), Yoo-Jin Chung (Dorm Council), Annika Firn (Honor Board), and Jenny Li (Honor Board) Not pictured: Da-In Jung (Honor Board)

US Honor Board and Dorm Council meet occasionally to discuss violations of US rules and come up with consequences based on what they feel is best. These consequences are submitted to the head of Upper School or the Head of the Dorm who have the ultimate decision.

US Drama Tech

Marina Andrade, Stephenie Simmons, Savannah Williams, Lauren Solmssen, Skylar Johnson, Caitlin Wahlers, Stacey Klemmer, and Vivian Zheng

Drama Tech, an end-of-the-day activity, teaches the basics of stage construction and technical theatre. Students learn how to use hand and power tools while building the sets for various plays throughout the year.

US Inkwell

Stephanie Guerard, Jenny Thomson, Laura Barber, JiWon Ok, Lisa Wallace, Emily Carr, Li Murphy, Ana Luiza Douthwaite, Rachel Huh, Maya Pisel, Taylor Cassell, Rachael Martin, Do Yeon Lee, and Anna Yamamoto

Inkwell consistently delivers the Annie Wright community with thorough newspaper editions that cover: recent activities, pressing issues, current events, and suggested activities. As an activity they are joining the band wagon and are going green by printing fewer copies and having readers return the issues to boxes around campus for others to use. As an established and respected club they often get a large turnout for staff and this year was not different. They were even graced by the presence of a new advisor who has brought the paper to new heights.

US Masque Players

Philomena Bradford, Kelsey Merriam, Stephanie Simmons, Maha El-Jack, Larissa Day, Kathy Kimpel, and two students who joined in the festivities for Scholar Search Weekend.

This actors theatre activity is defined by the particular interests of the current group. This year the group loves improv games, monologues, performing scenes and going to theatre. They have learned and played many games and exercises, sent students to Monologue Night at Stadium High School, held a Kids Night Out to fund a trip to Seattle in March to see The Lion King, and did a showcase of scenes from the Neo-futurist playwrights to perform at US chapel. There is never a dull moment in Masque Players, who also offer support to the US and All-School plays, and give out Theatre Letters at the fall and spring awards assemblies.

US Mathletes

Holly Huang, Josephine Duan, Cheska Gabales, Philomena Bradford, Caroline Hao, Kyra Mungia, Stacy Yeh, Raina Chang, So Jung Ki, Annie Choi, Erica Lee, and Rachel Huh Not pictured: Joanna Lee, ViVi Ni, Emma Feng, Vivian Zheng, and Genny Goldwood

Mathletes involves fine-tuning intellectual muscles, through strenuous math problems, competitions, and case studies. The Mathletes team placed 4th in state last year and is currently ranked 1st in our region. The girls also took the AMC (American Math Contest), which is an extremely difficult national test. Our Mathletes team loves doing math, which is obviously equivalent to having infinite amounts of unlimited fun!!!!

LS Orchestra

Emma Peet, Sarah Gallup-Stowell, Emma Salam, Tana Givens, Elizabeth Smith, Annika Cederstrand, Maria Peterson, Annie White, Isabelle Weeks, Natalie Steinert, Stewart Hughes, Christopher Cho, Hannah Pukis, Anna Terrano, YaXi Stapp, Anna Andrade, Molly Bryant, Anna Salam, Emma Titus, Anna Haddad, Holly Shadko, Eleanor Tanbara, Casey Kim, Jade Cheatham, Gabi Hyman, Julia Hanly, and Josie Trueblood Not pictured: Arjun Deol and Kaylee Kim

Orchestra is offered to LS students in grades 1-5.
Students in Pre-K and Kindergarten may practice as their own group in preparation for joining orchestra when they reach 1st grade. Students have both private lessons with Stuart Hake and group practices that are arranged by a combination of grade level and current musical proficiency.

MS Orchestra

Stuart Hake, Julia Smith, Zoe Keskey, Juli Jugan, Catherine Thatcher, Bikie Pental, Alex Moreno, Santana Andrade, Dawn Brown, Elisa Devita, Sinclair Willman, Savannah Langworthy, Cameron Willman, and Matthew Hahm

Not pictured: Maria Vipond, Madi Tanbara, Tiffaney Szoboszlay

Orchestra in the Middle School is offered as a music elective for all grade levels. They play at Lessons and Carols and various Chapels.

US Orchestra

Helen Choi, Raina Chang, Rachel Huh, Laura Jeung, Harriet Hwang, Stacy Yeh, Camille Priebe, Stuart Hake, Elizabeth Ferrie, Min Hye Kim, Lydia Mautz, Yun Hee Kim, So Jung Ki, Savannah Langworthy, Annie Choi, Yu Jin Huh, Emma Day, and Grace Hamilton Not pictured: Laine Bute

US Orchestra is offered partly as an activity and a class. They meet once during activity period and once during Study Hall. This year they won first place at a competition at Mt. Tahoma High School. They have performed numerous times during All School Chapel and for the Founder's Day Chapel and Lessons and Carols.

CLUBS

Not pictured: Maria Peterson, Hannah Pukis, and Anna Terrano

Starting in 3rd grade, students may be elected by their peers to the LS Student Council. These students help build the spirit of the students and teachers in LS. They meet with Mr. Fassler to plan civvies days and special events, help new students feel welcome and get settled, and discuss the wishes of the students to make LS a better place.

MS Student Council

Reghan Pukis, Tori Smith, Jared Sinsheimer, Bikie Pental, Jack Kennedy, Sarah Salam, Sophia Arim (Secretary), Maryam Saudagaran (President), and Anisha Vora

Not pictured: Aubrey Cearley (Vice President)

Students in Middle School have the opportunity to join the Student Council run by Jack Fallat. This great group meets in the cottage and is responsible for planning things like dances, Secret Santa, the Holiday Tea, Valentine Candy Grams, and Spirit Week. Students may also bring to the table other ideas they would like to execute to boost the morale of the Middle School.

US WIPT

Sonia Vora, Mina Saudagaran, Linnea Hattery, Melissa Fallat, Abhilasha Bhola, Li Murphy, Caitlin Brown, Esther Noh, Gabrielle Bates, Tiara Webb, Ana Luiza Douthwaite, Sarah Myles, Maya Pisel, Kyra Mungia, Madeline Scott, Emma Day, and Jenny Thomson

Not pictured: Min Hye Kim, Jarylin Reese and Lisa Wallace

WIPT (Window Into Political Thought) has a mission to increase the political awareness and activity of the Annie Wright student body. To that end, WIPT produces various projects and events that engage students in the multifaceted and pressing socio-political issues facing our world. This year those projects included a voter education campaign and a mock Presidential election, a presentation on the financial crisis, and a multi-part analysis of international drug trafficking.
